To Whom It May Concern:

Krystal Beauregard was hired as a Marketing Street Team member in August of 2016. It was an easy choice to bring her on, as it was clear that she is a terrific person with great character and a strong work ethic. Our Street Team is a grassroots marketing role and while it provides great experience for the members, it ends up providing our organization with so much more. When you land an employee like Krystal, the quality of our team is elevated.

Krystal worked various large events throughout the Chicagoland area and also helped out with numerous tasks within the front office. Krystal proved to be a versatile self-starter when she helped at the Chicago Blackhawks Convention. This is an enormous undertaking with a limited number of staff and she was able to assist with a variety of tasks.

This September, we promoted Krystal to a game night role as a Media Relations Intern. These interns are trusted with important and confidential tasks. With our level of trust and reliability, Krystal made a seamless transition to a new department. Her department, as well as members of the media, see Krystal as a familiar and friendly face that is always willing to provide any assistance necessary.

We are fortunate to have a bright star in Krystal Beauregard while she is with the Blackhawks. She is very responsible and possesses a great amount of reliability and maturity. She would be a great asset to any business or sports team in her future.

If you have any questions regarding Krystal, please feel free to contact me directly at (312) 455-7075.

Sincerely,

Kyleen Howe
